University Of Padua

To identify stable and mediating vulnerability factors for impulsive, compulsive behaviour in a healthy population under the supervision of Professor Nicola Marie Joan Edelstyn. We have also been exploring risk factors for externalising behaviours such as gambling, eating disorder, and compulsive shopping. The study adopts a transdiagnostic approach, which makes the assumption that normal and abnormal behaviour is dimensional and exists on a continuum of dysfunction. My primary responsibilities are: 1. Survey creation using the survey package Qualtrics 2. And, relatedly, methodological manipulations to monitor data quality (attention checks, randomisation). 3. Ethical principles underpinning informed consent, participant care, confidentiality anonymity, withdrawal. 4. And relatedly, their implementation in practice through the drafting of information sheet, consent form and debrief for submission to the psychology research ethics committee.

TRANSVERSAL SKILLS

My previous education and professional experience have helped me gain oral, writing, and interpersonal communication skills; I possess the ability to compile, analyse, and present information through written reports and verbal presentations. I work well with others and can navigate challenging personal dynamics. I am usually quite aware of other people's feelings and needs, contributing outside the discipline through teamwork, leadership and conflict resolution. I am a disciplined time manager. I have also learned to be flexible and assess multiple perspectives, and critically compare and contrast evidence.

PERSONAL INTEREST

I enjoy reading and writing, specifically thrillers. However, I prefer to spend my leisure time painting or sketching. I'm also a huge history enthusiast, so I enjoy taking a deep dive into the past if not making art or spending time in something literary-based.
